

Cookie Policy

Cookie policy for the website: TheTradingBible.com

By using our site, you agree to the use of cookies by TheTradingBible.com.

What is a cookie?

Cookies are small bits of code (text files) that contain information, every time a user is browsing through the web and visiting webpages, receives cookies from them, used for displaying the right information such as the correct language in the page for example, based on your location.

Have you ever noticed how in some websites you can click on stay logged in ? Well This is done via cookies. They contain the necessary bits of information such as geolocation, language, etc.

There are several types of cookies, but in the case of thetradingbible.com we only use the basic ones necessary for analytic purposes to understand our customers needs, without access to any personal information that can identify you in any sensitive way.

What types of cookies do we use?

Session Cookies:

This cookies are temporary and used only during the browsing session, they allow us to remember your preferences during a specific browsing session so they stay the same when you switch from one page to another inside our domain.

Permanent Cookies:

This cookies are stored for a longer period of time, they remember each visitor individually without any personal type of information and they are used to remember certain settings when you come back to the page, one of them could be your language preference for example.

First Party Cookies:

Cookies created only within thetradingbible.com and enabled to our users for web experience enhancement purposes.

Third Party Cookies:

Those enabled by different domains which are not thetradingbible.com. A great example of this is cookies enabled by google.com for analytical purposes.

Analytical Cookies:

Cookies that allow us to understand how many users are active on our website, the first page a user visits, the date and time of access to the website, highest traffic ours, source of traffic to our website along many more generic measurements that do not identify you personally in any way. They help us improve our website by giving us a greater understanding of what our user base likes.

Third Party Cookies from collaborating entities:

Google provides amazing services that help website owners understand businesses in a better way. When you enter thetradingbible.com certain cookies originating from www.google.com can be enabled. This cookies allows us to generate several measurement and report systems that helps us provide a much better experience. Here is more information on the cookies that google uses.

Google Analytics helps us understand our user's behaviour and interaction with thetradingbible.com without acquiring any personal or sensitive information.

How to disable cookies?

Most of the modern web browsers allow you to reject cookies, erase them and verify which ones are in your computer.

Here is a detailed guide by google.com on how to turn cookies on or off .

Warning: disabling cookies certain site functionality or necessary resources might be disable very important aspects from our website and you might not be able to enjoy the best experience possible.

About our usage:

thetradingbible.com wishes to state that we operate in the educational business and aim to keep a very closed style on our business model, we do not take part in external advertisements so you will not see any ads, customisable or non-customisable inside our website, this will give you the best experience possible.

By using our website you agree to the use of cookies by thetradingbible.com.